

ALLIGANS IN POLICE COURT.

Strenuous Woman Lawyer Who Alleges Saloon-Keeper Cox Stabbed Her in Dispossess Fight Shows Magistrate Hand

After a five years' struggle through the Supreme and Appellate Courts the Barons and the Mulligans wound up in the Morrisania Court to-day. That they didn't all finish in a hospital is almost miraculous. However, Mrs. Mulligan went to court with a hand wrapped in bandages, and said she felt so bad she was compelled to have the case put over until Friday.

She was prosecuting witness against John J. Cox, a saloon-keeper, one of the Barons' henchmen, who she claimed had stabbed her in the hand while she was trying to hurl the clan of Barons and various deputy sheriffs out of her real estate and law offices at No. 77 Tremont avenue.

The feud between the Barons and the Mulligans has been on for five years. As long as any resident of the Bronx can remember the property at Third and Tremont avenues has been owned by the Barons family. The father of William Q. and Charles H. Barons leased the corner many years ago to John J. Cox, who runs a saloon, and the property at No. 77 Tremont avenue he leased more than ten years ago to William Mulligan and his wife, Agnes K. Murphy-Mulligan, who claims to be the first woman admitted to the bar of New York.

The elder Barons had only a life interest in the property, it appears, but he mortgaged it to the Twelfth Ward Bank and the Mulligans purchased the mortgage, paying $1,000 for it. When Barons died, five years ago, his sons were surprised about the mortgage and told the tenants they would have to take out new leases, as the mortgage was invalid and they were the rightful owners. Cox acquiesced, but the Mulligans, having a lawyer in the family, went to court.

The litigation was acrimonious. Last fall the Appellate Division decided in favor of the Barons, giving them a judgment for $6,000 back rent against the Mulligans, who got a stay and filed bond. Hearing that an effort would be made to reopen the case, the Barons secured an order vacating the stay and proceeded to take possession last evening.

Deputy Sheriff Metzger and W. G. Barons, assisted by Saloon-Keeper Cox, broke into the office after the Mulligans had gone home. The Mulligans heard of this and returned. Mulligan couldn't force the door, so he kicked in a window and entered. His wife followed suit and, according to Barons, thus cut her hand. Mulligan ordered Cox out and Cox knocked him down. The police arrived and Mulligan ordered the door all night, under strict instructions from Mrs. Mulligan not to use her force. To-day the front of the office is boarded up. It will stay boarded up, the Barons say, until the Mulligans get through with their legal fight. Mrs. Agnes K. Murphy-Mulligan is one of the biggest real estate operators in the Bronx. She took up her father's business, increased it and then studied law. While in the law school she fell in love with William Mulligan, a classmate, and married him.

The Mulligans, having a lawyer in the family, went to court.

WHAT! A WOMAN BOLLER-MAKER!

Secretary Moody Hears that One so Rated Is Employed as a Clerk in the Brooklyn Navy-Yard.

The Brooklyn Navy-Yard is much disturbed by the allegation that it has harbored a woman bollermaker, unknown to the rank and file of employees.

The charge was first made in an anonymous letter to Secretary of the Navy Moody. The writer complained that the civil-service rules were violated at the Navy-Yard and cited in support of the charge the case of a woman who, although she had never passed the required civil-service examination, was, she letter declared, employed as a clerk in the Engineering Department at the yard and rated on the rolls as a fourth-class bollermaker.

At the Navy-Yard this morning Mrs. L. Morrison and Miss Mary L. Barnum, the two women clerks employed in the Engineering Department, stated that they had both entered through the civil-service examination, and had held their positions since 1901.

"We certainly are not rated as bollermakers, and I object to being suspected of being one in disguise," said Mrs. Morrison.

The other clerks in the Engineering Department are making merry over the incident. They started a subscription "for to-day, the purpose of which is explained by the following notice, with which it is headed:

"Hence to whom honor is due: As the Steam Engineering Department is the only department having the distinct honor of possessing a lady bollermaker, even though fourth class, we, the undersigned, in appreciation of this honor, contribute the sums opposite our names to purchase a proper and worthy outfit for presentation to said lady bollermaker."

"They are planning to make the presentation to-morrow."

Capt. F. A. H. Smith, head of the department of engineering, characterized the charge that one of his women clerks was rated as a bollermaker as "ridiculous."

"We have only two, and both have passed the examinations," he declared. "The circumstance which probably gave rise to the charge was the presence of a woman who might be idle at any task which he could perform. For instance, if a head machinist were doing nothing and were near the telephone, I would naturally expect him to take the message in event of a call. Now in such cases have been issued forbidding any employing any one in any capacity but that in which they are rated. It is aiming to do away with any room for compromise. There has never been any idea of violating the rules."

The complaint aims directly at the employees who have entered through the labor service rule and is based on the alleged grievance that these laborers are keeping men who pass civil service examinations out of positions. This idea is wrong."

"We have only two, and both have passed the examinations," he declared. "The circumstance which probably gave rise to the charge was the presence of a woman who might be idle at any task which he could perform. ## MAKES WAR ON CONSUMPTION.

Health Commissioner Lederle Proposes to Establish Camp in Which to Test the Open-Air Treatment.

Consumption is believed by President Ernest J. Lederle, of the Department of Health, to be on the increase, and the disease, he says, remains the greatest single cause of death and one which in his opinion demands more attention from the municipal authorities.

The interests of public health, the Commissioner says to-day, in a message to the Mayor, should not longer be menaced by inattention to the growing needs for preventive measures.

He points out that during the year 1902 7,571 persons died of tuberculosis in New York City, while 1,212 died of other forms of tuberculosis. In 1901 the deaths from pulmonary tuberculosis numbered 8,135. He added:

"During the year 1902 there were 1,204 cases of tuberculosis reported to this department, as compared with 1,763 in the year 1901. The number of persons suffering from tuberculosis is variously estimated at from thirty to forty thousand, and many of these are undoubtedly infecting their associates and thus adding to the extent of the disease. I believe that the time has come when the city of New York should extend its facilities for the treatment of tuberculosis.

"I have been much impressed by the opinions of leading physicians with regard to the efficiency of the open air treatment for tuberculosis as practiced to some extent in this country and quite generally in Europe. As you no doubt are aware, the Charity Organization Society's Committee on Tuberculosis has submitted to me a plan for a tuberculosis sanatorium and camp. These plans are on an elaborate scale and are still under discussion, but I fear that as at present framed they would call for too large an expenditure of money, some two hundred or three hundred thousand dollars being apparently required.

"I believe that with an appropriation of $50,000, which amount will be formally requested by the Board of Health from the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, I can erect a sanatorium on the tent and ducker plan, with accommodations for sixty patients and fifteen attendants, the same to be operated from May 1 to Dec. 31, 1903. This camp should be put in operation and should prove to be successful, as I do not doubt it will, it will then be possible for the City of New York to enter upon this method of tuberculosis prevention on a larger scale.

"A tract of twenty acres in Orange County, New York, has been offered to this department free for a period of two years, and the acceptance of the offer entails no financial obligations upon the city."

The Mayor said: "I shall give the Commissioner's letter immediate attention. I deserve prompt notice, and I am sure that all that the city can do will be done."

SHOE-RENT.

THERE'S a charge for store rent in every pair of shoes retailed. There is also a charge for advertising, in the selling of Regals. Does the advertising add to the cost of selling, per pair, or reduce it? Let's see: A store paying $20 per day for rent, and selling twenty pairs of shoes, without advertising, would have to charge you one dollar per pair for rent alone.

If, by spending $20 per day additional for Advertising, the same store can sell 200 pairs of shoes instead of 20 pairs, then the rent and advertising combined would cost only 20 cents, per pair, instead of $1.00.

It is a favorite argument with unadvised shoe stores that they can give better value than Regals, because they do not advertise.

As well say they could give better value than Regals because they have not trade enough to employ more than one salesman.

It is the volume of sales which reduces the cost of selling each pair, and proper advertising is the quickest, and cheapest, way to get volume, when the shoes are good enough to be worth advertising.

Regal advertising is only one little cog in the Regal system of "Tannery to Consumer," but Regal quality could never be sold at $3.50 without the advertising which makes 51 Regal stores the busiest in their respective cities.

Easter styles now on sale—$3.50. See windows, or write for Style Book.
